NJMC Staff Shows Creative Side at The Flyway Gallery Photographs and Drawings Will Be on Display Throughout February

LYNDHURST, N.J. – Artwork created by members of the New Jersey Meadowlands Commissions staff will be on display at the Flyway Gallery in the Meadowlands Environment Center now through Feb. 28.

“This is an excellent opportunity to showcase the creative talents of our staff,” said NJMC Executive Director Robert Ceberio. “These works show a keen eye for the inherent beauty of this region and other landscapes around the world. It gives us a sense of pride in the natural setting where we work and the agency we work for every day.”

A total of 28 pieces from nine employees are hanging in the gallery as part of the NJMC Employee Art Show. Photos and sketches range from studies of the Hackensack River and the various birds and plant life found in the Meadowlands, to the natural beauty outside the Meadowlands District’s borders, to fun and whimsical subjects.

“We are overjoyed to further this agency’s mission of creating a unique identity for the Meadowlands through the arts,” said NJMC Commissioner Arleen Walther. “With the recent Nature of the Meadowlands Photo Contest and the upcoming Educators’ Art Exhibit, we look forward to helping the arts flourish in the District.”
